

The Royalist Army at the
Storming of Cirencester
2 February 1643

The Right Wing, under Lord Wentworth:

Colonel Edward Drury's Regiment of Dragoons
The Earl of Northampton's Regiment of Dragoons
Sir Edward Duncombe's Regiment of Dragoons
Lord Wentworth's Regiment of Dragoons

The Prince of Wales' Regiment of Horse (6 troops)

The Centre, under Lord Wilmot:

500 'commanded men' under Colonel Lewis Kirk (foot)

Prince Maurice's Regiment of Horse (6 or 7 troops)

The Left Wing, under Prince Rupert:

Colonel James Usher's Regiment of Dragoons

400 'commanded men' under Lieutenant Colonel
Herbert Lunsford (foot)

Prince Rupert's Lifeguard of Horse (1 troop)
Prince Rupert's Regiment of Horse (6 troops)

The Reserve, under Sir John Byron:

Sir John Byron's Regiment of Horse (6 troops)
The Earl of Carnarvon's Regiment of Horse (5 or 6 troops)

Also present was a 'body' of horse under Colonel Slater, which may have consisted only of 'commanded men'.

The commanded foot were all drawn from the Regiments of:

The King's Lifeguard of Foot
Sir Ralph Dutton's Regiment of Foot
Colonel Charles Gerard's Regiment of Foot
Sir William Pennyman's Regiment of Foot

A Particular Relation of the Action Before Cyrencester..., Oxford 1643