

Union Forces
Artillery Equipment
9th Army Corps
1 April 1865

1st Connecticut Artillery, Battery A (4 4.5" guns & 4 10" mortars)
1st Connecticut Artillery, Battery I (6 30pdr Parrotts)
1st Connecticut Artillery, Battery E (4 8" mortars)
1st Connecticut Artillery, Battery K (4 8" mortars & 2 Coehorns)
1st Connecticut Artillery, Battery L (2 8" mortars & 8 Coehorns)
Dets/1st Connecticut Artillery (5 30pdr Parrott, 5 Coehorn Mortars, 4 8" mortars)
Maine Light Artillery, 7th Battery (6 light 12pdrs)
Massachusetts Light Artillery, 5th Battery (4 3" rifles)
Massachusetts Light Artillery, 9th Battery (6 light 12pdrs)
Massachusetts Light Artillery, 11th Battery (4 3" rifles)
Massachusetts Light Artillery, 14th Battery (4 3" rifles)
New Jersey Light Artillery, 3rd Battery (2 light 12pdrs)
New York Light Artillery, 34th Battery (6 3" rifles)
New York Light Artillery, 19th Battery (4 light 12pdrs)
New York Light Artillery, 27th Battery (4 light 12pdrs)
1st New York Light Artillery, Battery C (4 light 12pdrs)
1st New York Light Artillery, Battery E (2 light 12pdrs)
1st New York Light Artillery, Battery G (6 light 12pdrs)
1st New York Light Artillery, Battery L (4 3" rifles)
Det/New York Light Artillery, 14th Battery (6 Coehorns)
Pennsylvania Light Artillery, Battery B (6 3' rifles)
Pennsylvania Light Artillery, Battery D (6 3' rifles)
5th U.S. Artillery, Batteries C & I (4 light 12pdrs)

Note: This equipment is in various forts and batteries and is engaged in the Siege of the Confederate lines. The batteries were often operating in several sections posted seperately in various earthworks, etc. The detachment of the 1st Connecticut which does not have a company designation apparently belong to a number of different companies.

U.S. War Department, The War of the Succession, A Compilation of Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies, Government Printing Office; Washington D.C. 1880-1901