

The Parliamentary Army at
The Siege of Colchester
14 June - 28 August 1648

Commander: His Excellency The Lord General Thomas, 3rd Baron Fairfax of Cameron

The Army:

Horse:

The Lord General's Regiment of Horse
4 troops present, commanded by Major John Disbrowe
Colonel Edward Whalley's Regiment of Horse (6 troops)
commanded by himself
Colonel Charles Fleetwood's Regiment of Horse
5 troops present, commanded by Major William Coleman
(Note: remaining troop at Lynn)
Commissary General Henry Ireton's Regiment of Horse
3 troops present, commanded by Captain William Cecil (Note: Major Robert Gibbon with his own, and another troop, joined towards the end of July, the remaining troop was at Windsor Castle)

During part of the Siege, until the early part of July:

Colonel Adrian Scrope's Regiment of Horse
3 troops present, commanded by the Colonel
(Note: the other 3 troops were with Cromwell at Preston)

Dragoons:

Colonel John Okey's Regiment of Dragoons
2 companies present commanded by Captains Francis Freeman &
Francis Barrington

Foot:

Colonel John Barkstead's Regiment of Foot (10 companies)
commanded by himself 800 strong
Colonel Simon Needham's Regiment of Foot
7 companies present, commanded by himself 400 strong (Note: known as The Tower Guards. The remaining 3 companies of this regt stayed in the Tower. Needham was killed on 13 June and succeeded by his Lt Colonel - William Shambrook. Shambrook was mortally wounded on 5 July and the Colonelcy then passed to Thomas Rainborowe)
Colonel Richard Ingolsby's Regiment of Foot
4 companies present, commanded by Captain John Grimes 320 strong

The Essex Forces (i.e. forces paid by the County, not by the State)

Horse:

Colonel Harlackden's Regiment of Horse
4 troops commanded by Major Robert Sparrow

Dragoons:

Captain Turner's company of Dragoons
(Note: this 'troop' of Dragoons may have been part of Harlackden's regiment of Horse)

Foot:

Sir Thomas Hunniwood's Regiment of Foot
Colonel Cook's Regiment of Foot
(Note: one of these regts was the County Trained Bands, the other the County Auxiliaries)

At Chelmsford and Malden:

Colonel Henry Mildmay's Regiment of Horse "and two troops of Dragoons"
Colonel Carew Mildmay's Regiment of Foot (part)
commanded by Major Bard

The Suffolk Forces

Horse:

Colonel Brampton (?) Gurdon's Regiment of Horse

Foot:

Sir Thomas (?) Barnardiston's Regiment of Foot
Colonel Fothergill's Regiment of Foot
Colonel Edmund Harvey's's Regiment of Foot
Colonel William Bloyse's Regiment of Foot

At Nailand, Stratford and Cadaway:

Captains: Fisher
Bradling
Sparow

(Note: there is no evidence as to whether these were troops of horse or companies of foot, but the latter seemes the more likely)

A Diary of the Siege of Colchester, London 1650

Christian names have been added from other sources.