¹ In working between records two different tank formations were identified. The first is an armored regiment and the second was two independent tank battalions. It is probable that they are one and the same formation, only redefined from an independent regiment to two independent battalions. Where other brigades indicate this change, it is assumed to be the same process. In some instances, however, it was noted that the "Armored Regiments" appear to have simply been redesignated "Armored Battalions", carrying their numbers across the transition.
